WADE — Santa Claus will give blood Saturday during a stop at the Countryside Convenience Store to hear last-minute Christmas wishes.

"Even though I am busy with Christmas preparations, I felt it was important for me to take time to give this gift of life," Santa said. "The holiday season is a critical time when the need for blood may actually increase but donations may fall below usual levels because people are busy or out of town."

District 1 Supervisor Tommy Smith said community centers

Santa will be rolling up his sleeve sometime between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. — the hours slated for the annual Wade Community Blood Drive. The drive will take place at Countryside on Mississippi 63.

"We're thrilled to have Santa as one of our donors," said B.J. Bouzemann, chairwoman of the drive. "We hope everyone will follow his example and give a few minutes of their time to give someone else another Christmas."

For the past three Christmas seasons, Santa has visited Countryside, which is owned by Barbara Martin. Ms. Martin is called the "backbone of the community" by her employees and other Wade people who are involved with this year's blood drive.

"She's a giving person all year long — not just at Christmas," Rita Johnson said. "Barbara is always willing to give 100 percent of herself."

Ms. Johnson's son, Russell, helps manage the store and will be assisting with the blood drive. Other locals helping are Donna Baria and Wayne Havard. The drive is being coordinated by the American Red Cross.

Visits with Santa are open to everyone. If a person is unable to give blood, he or she may still bring children for a last-minute sit on Santa's lap.

According to Red Cross representative Teri Olivier, donors must be at least 17 years old, weigh 110 pounds or more and be in good health.

The American Red Cross supplies blood on a regular basis to nine hospitals including Biloxi

State man survives plane crash

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — A Mississippi pilot walked away from the wreckage of his small airplane after the craft hit several trees, a power line and two houses in an unoccupied portion of a subdivision.

Gary Michael Tyler, 33, of Bruce, Miss., was attempting to get to an airport here Monday when he discovered the engine of his Cessna 210 was not getting enough fuel, authorities said. The pilot switched to a second fuel tank but the engine cut off, said Cpl. Darren Ferrier.

Annexation

ments. Alderman at-large Andre Kaufman pointed out the "nightmare" the city inherited with Parktown East because it was in the county when it was developed and did not come inside the city limits until 1971.

"This (annexation) should have been done 20 years ago," Kaufman said.

Prior to the board's vote, Lusteck presented the preliminary study he did on the feasibility of annexing an area divided into two sections.

The first study section is bounded on the west by existing city limits, on the north by Fort Bayou, on the east by Mississippi Highway 57 and on the south by Old Spanish Trail.

Excluded from the study was Sunplex Industrial Park on Mississippi 57. However, Kaufman asked that Sunplex be included in the comprehensive study.

The second study section is bounded west by the present by Old Spanish Trail, Mississippi Sound, section line that extends to St. Andrews areas.

He warned the city would face a "big podge" of utility costs in two study sections. A comprehensive study by engineer Mark Seyler in providing cost estimates to utility companies.

Lusteck pointed out developable land in the south section contain a lot of wetlands.

Both Kaufman and Harvey Sr. said they would like to see the city to annex the homeport and we would like for it to be Pascagoula," he said.

Port Authority President Johnny Tillman promised both Monsen and the longshoremen his cooperation.

In other business, Port Director Paul Smith reported that he, along with Supervisor President Doug Holden and Linda Rosa of the City of Pascagoula met with Rep. Trent Lott and Sen. John Stennis recently in Washington on the Navy homeport.

Smith said the Navy hasn't made a decision on the Pascagoula location but is "still leaning toward Singing River Island."

District 4 Supervisor Tommy Brodnax asked the authority to take the lead role in restoration of the Ocean Springs beach and

Justice Department OKs tax referendum

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The U.S. Justice Department has approved June's state referendum on a constitutional amendment restructuring the method of assessing property taxes.

The Claiborne County Board of Supervisors, upset that part of that amendment involved distributing taxes collected from the Grand Gulf nuclear station to 44 other counties, challenged holding the referendum in June, saying it violated the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

The supervisors argued that the referendum should be held the day of the November general election rather than during the June party primaries.

Voters narrowly ratified the amendment, which created a separate tax category for residential homes and lowered the assessment on residential homes from 15 percent to 10 percent of market value.

"We received oral notification from the Justice Department that it has pre-cleared the amendment as far as the time element was concerned," Lynn Mitchell, a special assistant attorney general, said Tuesday. "We are expecting a full, written response today."
